Wendy's Restaurant Shows Marshall County Pride

MOUNDSVILLE –Wendy's Restaurant of Moundsville will be displaying its hometown pride starting this Friday and running through Oct. 1 by wearing "Home is Where the Heart Is" T-shirts celebrating Marshall County.

Tim Thompson, chief operating officer of Primary Aim LLC, ordered 30 shirts for the Wendy's Moundsville employees. Primary Aim LLC owns the Moundsville restaurant, as well as 28 other Wendy's in West Virginia and Ohio. The T-shirts were designed and sold by the Marshall County Family Resource Network as a way for county residents to show pride in their community.

"Tim Thompson originated the idea of finding ways to express our community pride and we have had a great response to our T-shirts," said Stacie Dei, executive director of the Marshall County Family Resource Network. "We're very proud of our community and this is just one way for us to show it. Wendy's Restaurant and its employees are supportive of our community development efforts and we appreciate their willingness to show pride in Marshall County."

Thompson said: "We are proud to be part of Marshall County and Moundsville, and I can't think of a better way to show our support than to have our employees wear these T-shirts!"

The T-shirts are navy with gold lettering. On the front, "Home is Where My Heart Is" is displayed; on the back is an outline of West Virginia and "I Love Marshall County."

Some sizes of the T-shirt are still available by calling (304) 845-3300.

Proceeds from the T-shirts benefit the annual Marshall County Winter Carnival, which is organized by the Marshall County FRN and will take place this year on Dec. 31 in downtown Moundsville. Further information about the winter carnival will be announced in the coming months.
